

Protective Services Technical Surveillance Countermeasure (TSCM) Services

Pinkerton's expertise in Technical Surveillance Countermeasures allows for rapid deployment of "de-bugging" services.

Some of the world's largest companies turn to Pinkerton's TSCM Team of experts to investigate the presence of electronic "bugs" for a variety of reasons and occasions. Protecting the integrity of confidential corporate communications, whether can be critical in eliminating losses, preserving trade secrets and defending the company and its brand from pernicious eavesdropping.

Clients use our TSCM Services for a variety of events or in unique locations, such as:

- A corporate event held in a public place
- Checking out a new location prior to the company's move-in
- In advance of a corporate executive board meeting

Rapid and scalable deployment

With our global network of resources, Pinkerton can provide rapid and scalable deployment of TSCM Services anywhere in the world. Our team searches for the presence of electronic "bugs" using their expertise and the latest technology and tools that "sniff out" electronic surveillance devices.

Companies count on us to deliver these specialized "bug sweep" services in a wide variety of locations and venues:

- In a single office
- Throughout an entire building
- At a single site or facility
- In multiple locations
- Throughout the US
- In locations around the world (where jurisdiction allows)

Case Study | TSCM: Rapid Deployment Uncovers Network of Electronic “bugs”; Mitigates Present and Future Risk

Challenge: Company executives were concerned that their Board meeting location was under surveillance by an illegal eavesdropper. The company contacted Pinkerton to assist them in stopping the exposure.

Pinkerton’s Solution: Responding in less than 24 hours, our TSCM Analysis / Bug Sweep, found:

- Identification of parties spying on the client’s business
- Recovery of covert video transmission via hidden cameras and AC outlets, telephone cable and other devices capable of transmitting communications
- A physical search uncovered hidden microphones, transmitters, audio recorders, closed-circuit television (CCTV) systems and other technical surveillance devices

Results: Pinkerton provided a detailed written analysis depicting our findings, revealed the origin of the technical surveillance devices, and offered recommendations to mitigate future risk of recurrence.
